Permaculture is self-organised by nature The movement is driven forward by individuals and collectives all busy doing and we do not often pause to reflect on our collective impact as a movement.

Together we can make the movement visible to itself, in order to achieve greater results by working together, using our resources more effectively and amplify each others voices.

We will be bringing together speakers from different key domains to share knowledge and best practices with the international Permaculture space and our allied networks.

The focus of this series of events sits in sustaining and creating movement coherence and cohesion: we are all on the same team!
